A: Download this page You know, I spent much of my life as a missionary. I was in Central America and the Caribbean, as many of you know. I was the secretary of one of the biggest NGO, a charitable foundation -- an NGO that was in service to the ministries of Christianity in Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua. I was a missionary for a long time, and I was working in the slums of Venezuela. I have spent a lot of time around people. And I know. I know how to turn it on. I understand that when you are talking about people, you are talking about love. And when you are talking about love, you have to give yourself completely. That is why I speak to you tonight. You are people. You are all from different cultures. Your skin color does not matter. My skin color is different from yours. But I am going to be real with you tonight. You are people, and you need love. And when you need love, you need to be able to give it to yourself. That is why I am going to talk to you tonight. I know that your stories are true. I know that you are hurting. I know that some of you have lost people. I know that, and I know that you have lost so much. I know that there are people in your life who love you, but they are not seeing the real you. And that is why I am going to speak tonight. Because I need to be able to love myself as much as I need to love you. Because I know that is the only way we will ever stop this violence. I want you all to know that I love you. I love you. I love you. And I want you to know that I need you, and I want you to know that I am counting on you. I know that
